

WINE AND CARDS

Was the Cause of a Fracas in East Sedalia Last Night.

In a Gambling Room Run by J. H. Jones is Where the Difficulty Occurred.

J. H. Jones and John Shaughnessy were arrested this morning by Officers Mooney and Mike Sully, on a warrant issued by Justice Blair charging them with making an assault upon D. W. Glazier for the purpose of robbery. They were taken before the justice and both gave bond in the sum of $400 for their appearance next Monday, at which time they will have their examination.

The exact facts of the case are quite complicated, and the truth of the matter will probably never be known by those outside of the difficulty. Last night about nine o'clock D. W. Glazier, of the firm of D. W. Glazier & Co., cigar manufacturers doing business on the corner of Third and Engineer street, who was not in his right mind at that time, happened to go into a gambling room in the second story of the building known as the Sedalia House and sat in a game of poker, with Jones and Shaughnessy. The game continued a while and for some reason, Jones says 'twas only in fun, got into a quarrel with Shaughnessy. Glazier picked up a chair and was in the act of striking Shaughnessy when Jones stopped him. Glazier then started to leave the room and when he reached the stairs he fell to the bottom cutting a large gash over his left eye and dislocating his left shoulder.

At the bottom of the stairs he was picked up by a friend and taken to his home, corner of Fourth and Engineer where he was visited by Dr. I. T. Bronson.

The above is the story as told by Jones in Justice Blair's office this morning.

Last night after the difficulty was over he seemed to be in a different state and said Glazier at some previous time had won $4 from him and he had intended to get even with him last night by fixing up the cards. Whether Jones won any money from Glazier, it is not known.

Further developments are expected at the trial and possibly some one will win a gambling house.

Said Wife Against Husband.

Sensations have their day in Sedalia as well as elsewhere. There was one in progress yesterday and last night in the Pettis county circuit court. It is the Ilgenfritz case. This is the result of a disagreement between or incompatibility of the husband and wife or both and has many sad and unpleasant features.

There were two suits commenced by Mrs. Belle McNair Ilgenfritz against her husband W. D. Ilgenfritz in 1888. One of the suits to re-invest the plaintiff, Mrs. Ilgenfritz with property at 1301 West Third street. In this case C. E. Ilgenfritz, brother of the defendant, was made a party to the suit, as the dwelling was deeded to him by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ilgenfritz Dec. 5, 1887, as the plaintiff avers by misrepresentation and promises made by both of these defendants, which were never carried out by them. Of course, the defendants in their answer deny nearly all the allegations of the plaintiff.

The evidence in this case was heard before the court yesterday and the argument and decision was deferred.

The other suit is Mrs. Belle McNair Ilgenfritz against W. D. Ilgenfritz. This is for the recovery of the wedding gifts—presents made at or before and since their wedding.

The evidence in this case was heard at a session of the court last night. A long list of wedding gifts were read and testified to in open court by Mrs. Ilgenfritz, her sister and her father, Chas. McNair.

W. D. Ilgenfritz the defendant, testified that the wedding gifts were given, as he supposed, for their joint use and he has refused to give them into her possession. The plaintiff claims that the presents were made to her personally by her friends, many of whom did not know the defendant, W. D. Ilgenfritz. The argument and decision was deferred. Jackson and Monte, attorneys for plaintiff and W. S. for defendant.

It is to be hoped for all concerned that these parties will come to an amicable understanding and that the suits may be dismissed and their home again be united, but there is but little hope for this termination.

Divorce Case.

In the circuit court to-day a divorce case is being heard. The title of the suit is Kate C. Powell vs. Chas. H. Powell.

The plaintiff is a woman probably thirty-five years old and has every appearance of a lady. In her petition she says that she was married to Mr. Powell Dec. 22, 1875. That Powell is a habitual drunkard, has often come home intoxicated and abused her shamefully.

About fifteen witnesses were summoned for the plaintiff. Mrs. Kate C. Powell was the first witness examined. She testified to the brutal treatment of herself at the hands of her husband. The testimony was heart-rending and if what she says is true, and there is no doubt of its truth, Powell is not fit to live with a Comanche squaw. All sorts of indignities, ill treatment, kicking her, throwing knives and forks, a stick of wood, and at one time sending a ball of hot sausage at her head, hitting her and scattering against the wall behind.

Charles H. Powell is a prosperous farmer about seventeen miles south-east of Sedalia where he has a farm of 270 acres, which he inherited from his father. The fellow is well known in Sedalia where he has a very unenviable reputation as far as a common drunkard is concerned, as he rarely comes to town without filling up on the poorest whisky he can buy.

The wife testified that one time he held their little boy and forced him to drink whiskey.

Mrs. Powell asks the custody of the two minor children and for sufficient alimony to support herself and children besides an absolute decree of divorce from the drunken wretch she was married to. The case will not be concluded to-day.

A DEPOT BURNED.

An Early Morning Blaze at Chetopa, Kansas.

At 4 o'clock Sunday morning sparks from a passing locomotive set fire to the M. K. & T. depot at Chetopa, Kas., near the Texas state line. The flames were not discovered in season to save any of the contents of the building, which contained the books and furniture of the M. K. & T. Railway Company and a large amount of freight. The loss of the building is about $1,500. The depot was also used by the Missouri Pacific and it lost books and some furniture.

Johnson in Georgetown.

When John Johnson, the suspect, was released from the city jail he was escorted to the Southern boundary line of the corporation by Officer W. S. Murphy. Johnson made a circuit of Sedalia and showed up a few hours later in Georgetown. He told paries there that he had saved a bar of his calaboose cell nearly in two just to show the "cops" that he could have gotten out long ago if he had so wished to do so. He says he covered up his tracks by placing a chew of tobacco over the gap he had sawed out. An examination of the cell yesterday disclosed the fact that one of the bars had been nearly severed, and that it was done in a spirit of bravado because if the whole bar had been removed it would not let him out of his close quarters.

A Big Bittern.

John Weller killed a big bittern on Flat Creek yesterday and it is now on exhibition at James Ramsey's grocery store on Ohio street. It is of a brilliant old gold color, with slate-colored shading underneath the wings. It measures from tip to tip of wings exactly three feet and from point of bill to toes four feet. It will be stuffed and presented to the Chess, Checker and Whist club.

Attempted Burglary.

About eleven o'clock Saturday night, C. F. Beaman, the dairyman who resides in the northern part of the city, heard some one trying to gain entrance into the house by the front door. Looking out of the window he saw a man working at the keyhole with an instrument that looked like a long shoe-buttoner. Beaman opened the door quickly and knocked the intruder down. The man picked himself up and ran off. Mr. Beaman is not certain whether his visitor was a genuine burglar or some drunken fellow who had mistaken the door and was using the button-hook as a latch-key.

THE PLAY LADY.

How Her Manager Would Not Let Her be Interviewed by a Bazoo Reporter.

Mattie Vickers is quite a favorite in Sedalia. She was greeted by a poor audience last night owing to the large number of people who were at the park celebrating with the A. O. U. W. frat-rnity.

Mattie is the widow of Charlie Rogers, a comedian of considerable merit, well known in Sedalia, and of course a widow ought always be a drawing quality, but it was not last night.

Yesterday evening a bazoo reporter on this paper, dressed in faultless attire, sent his card to her room, No. 11, at Hotel Kaiser.

The reporter waited at the hotel office. The colored boy went to the room and returned in less time than it takes to write the fact.

"Show you to the parlor?" said the negro as he rolled the white of his eye at the paled boots of the reporter.

The reporter followed after the colored boy to the parlor and he was ushered in.

The sole occupant of the parlor was a woman and a young cheeb kid in her arms, aged about twelve months.

"Is this Miss Vickers?" asked the reporter in his blandest tone.

"I don't know her—she's not here," said the lady timidly.

"Pardon me, Madam, I am in the right pew, but the occupant I'm hunting is in some other place," replied the news hunter.

He turned upon his heel to go, and at the parlor door, he met a man.

"What do you want?" asked the man.

"I want to see Miss Vickers."

"Well, I'm her manager. Won't I do as well?"

"No sir! I want to see Miss Vickers. I want to interview her for a newspaper, published for the people now on earth, and besides that I can interview lots of men—in fact they are waiting to be interviewed on all the corners, in the hotel rotundas and at the Union depot."

"Well, she can't be seen," replied the manager, who is about the size of Col. Henry Hill, and twice as consequential.

The reporter pulled his hat on and said: "That shuns me out now, but when can I interview her?"

He said quite emphatically: "She can't be seen and that ends it."

The reporter dropped to the hotel office, while the manager stood at the head of the stairs watching his retreating form.

The bell boy informed the hotel clerk when he rapped on the door of room No. 11, a man—small one—came to the door and took the card. He did not show the card to the star, nor inform her that a reporter was in waiting to see her.

Mr. Manager: The reporter did not want to marry her, carry her off, ask about her mother-in-law, whether she wore false hair or false teeth but wanted to ask as follows:

If she was for Carnes or for Both well?

If she did not find it tough to be a "lone widow?"

How she liked Judge Metsker and his display of lightning on the street cars?

If she thought it worth while to talk matrimony to Deacon Will Courney?

If she was in favor of Ireland's freedom?

Where was she when she commenced to rehearse her elevated kicks?

Was that manager near by with an opera glass?

How old is Miss Vickers?

And after more questions that possibly the reporter could have thought of with a little time to consider the situation.

Only this and nothing more.

Had His Hair Cut Last Fall.

A stranger who said he lived in Cole county, about a mile out from Jefferson City, dropped into a West Second street barber shop and had his whiskers trimmed. The barber, who had "caught onto" his long straggling locks, politely asked him if he did not want his hair cut. The stranger flopped around in the revolving chair as quick as a flash of lightning and exclaimed in a stentorian voice, "hair cut! hair cut! Lord bless you son, do you take me for a banker. Why, Lord bless you my son I had my hair cropped last fall." The barber begged pardon for suggesting that a Jefferson city man ought to have his hair cut and the old man paid his bill and left.

The Old Yellow Pumpkin.

Gus Hill, the jolly bachelor farmer who resides within two stones throw of McKee Creek Methodist church and is a full fledged unconvinced sinner in spite of the efforts of the good sisters, dumped a lot of big pie pumpkins into the cellar of the city editor of the Bazoo yesterday, and the following verse, with thanks, are dedicated to Gus:

His water to his heart is the old yellow pumpkin.

When orchards are barren of stuffing for pies!

When peaches and apples have both been a failure,

And berries of no kind have greeted the eyes

How fondly we turn to the fruit of the corn field—

The fruit that our children are taught to despise—

The old yellow pumpkin, the mud-covered pumpkin.

The big-bellied pumpkin that makes such good pies.

Oh, golden-hued pumpkins, you surely are "in it,"

You joy and feast, so recently spurned

We ask your forgiveness for thus having wronged you.

When from your dear presence we scornfully turned,

Come rolling down hill, till we meet you and greet you.

Your bulk is a feast to our fruit-hungry eyes.

We love you, old pumpkin, so well we could eat you.

For you are a "dandy" when made into pies.

EXPRESS COMPANY TAXES.

Legal Decision That Puts Thousands Into the State Treasury.

The important decision rendered by Judge Caldwell in the case of the Pacific Express Company against J. M. S. Inert, state auditor, means an addition of hundreds of thousands of dollars of the state treasury. The case arose from the act of the legislature of the state of Missouri, which provided that all express companies shall annually, between the 1st day of April and the 1st day of May, make and deliver to the state auditor a statement, showing the entire receipts for business done within the state for the preceding year, and that after deducting the cost of railroad and steamboat charges from the gross receipts the company shall pay a state tax of 2 per cent. With the passage of the act many of the smaller express companies made preparations to comply with the law, and at the appointed time, paid into the treasury the fixed sum. The Pacific Express Company and some of the larger companies refused to pay any money to the state of Missouri, and in order to settle the matter, the Pacific Express Company, backed by the others, brought the suit which ended with Judge Caldwell's, now celebrated decision. The suit began on June 1, 1890, and was decided on October 22. Much praise is due to Attorney-General Wood for the indefatigable manner in which he labored during the heated period. He was alone in the fight. The express companies gathered the best talent money could procure to argue their sides of the case. It was a long and bitter contest. All during the summer months, when lawyers are resting, the Attorney-General fought for the state of Missouri. It was not until October 22 that his work ended.

In addition to the tax of 2 per cent, which the Missouri Pacific Express Company and the Adams Express Company will have to pay into the State Treasury, they will be compelled to pay a fine of $100 for each day after the first day of July for refusing to pay the state tax.

ASHAMED OF HIS CONDUCT.

Yesterday a woman entered Sheriff Smith's office and enquired for the team the sheriff found starving two miles south of town on the road to the waterworks, as fully reported in THE SUNDAY BAZOON. Smith had a lecture two yards long in store for the owner, if he showed up, in which was a synopsis of the law with regard to cruelty to animals, but when the wife applied for the team he did not have the heart to get off his speech. He gave her an order for the team and went to the stable with her and footed the board bill out of his own pocket. There is a little story behind the Bazoo's report on Sunday, but on account of the wife of the man she lives with, further details are withheld.

ST. LOUIS POLITICS.

Hon. S. S. Bass Predicts a Grand Triumph for the Democracy in St. Louis, November 4.

Hon. S. S. Bass, a prominent lawyer and politician of St. Louis and president of the board of charities of that city, arrived from St. Louis this morning and is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goldberg.

Mr. Bass, in conversation with a Bazoo reporter, said that the prospects of a sweeping democratic majority in St. Louis City was never more brilliant than at the present time. There is not a particle of disaffection this time, in the democratic ranks and perfect harmony exists.

"I never saw so much interest taken in politics," said Mr. Bass, "as there is this year. The merchant and the mechanic are more deeply concerned in the result than ever before, even the women are showing their influence and a large vote may be depended upon. The county ticket is wonderfully strong and is made up of the best men that could possibly be selected and I am confident that every man on the democratic ticket will be elected. We will also restore the three congressmen in place of the 'accident' elected by the bugaboos of free trade. The workmen have their eyes open now and they will vote for the democratic nominee for congress."

Mr. Bass stated the difference between the O'Malley and O'Brien factions had been patched up at a conference held Saturday and that the followers of O'Malley will now heartily support O'Neil. This being the case there is no doubt of O'Neil being elected.

"How are Will Smith's chances of election to the office of recorder of deeds," asked the reporter. "He was formerly connected with the Bazoo and the people of Sedalia are interested in the result of his canvass."

"Will Smith," replied Mr. Bass, "is having a hard fight. His opponent is the present incumbent, William Hobbs, is a kind of a gasey man and popular with certain elements, but Will Smith I am confident, will pull through all right and be elected with the rest of the candidates on the democratic ticket."

Mr. Bass is a fluent talker and a brilliant orator and will address the members of the A. O. U. W. to-night at Association park. As president of the board of charities he is deeply interested in eleemosynary institutions, and this afternoon he visited the M. K. & T. hospital and was highly pleased with its condition and management.

A Letter from Judge Ryland.

Sheriff Ellis Smith received a letter to-day from Judge John E. Ryland, in which he comments upon the selfish actions of the Johnson county authorities in regard to the horse-thief that Sheriff Smith went to Warrsburg after and did not get.

The judge writes: "In the question of jurisdiction there seems to be no remedy. Whichever obtains jurisdiction first, will hold it. It would have been generous and right for the authorities of Johnson county to have surrendered the prisoner to you to be dealt with in Pettis county, but as they refused and had the prisoner and the jurisdiction over him, it is with them to surrender him or not. You will have just to submit and remember them in the future. I have known the same thing to have been done before. I don't like this selfish way of doing business. It is not my way and I don't think it right."

A Lively Scrap.

A lively scrap occurred on Main Street late on Saturday night, between one of the town boys and a stranger from Kansas City. The Kansas City man who is well-known in Sedalia, appeared to be in full possession of all his mental and physical faculties, and judging from the way in which he floored his Sedalia antagonist, he will be remembered for some time.
